can benefit

Benefit your business

Your issues

How aware are you of the energy consumption of your business premises? Maybe it's an issue of finding the time and resources to put energy efficiency at the top of your priorities.

By making small changes to the way you use your electricity or gas you could save money. There are other measures you could take too, which would have a tangible and beneficial effect on your bottom line performance. If only you had the time.

Our answers

A business energy audit from tadea will help to give you the information and support you need to make sound business decisions aimed at improving your energy efficiency, environmental performance and profitability. At the same time it will help to enhance your reputation for corporate responsibility.

About the audit

Our specialist Energy Auditors survey your premises, equipment, services and systems – checking how they are being used and looking for areas of improvement which we'll feed into a tailor-made report. We'll leave no stone unturned in the hunt for energy savings – our Auditors can even evaluate your energy bills.

We'll show you how improvements can realise significant financial and carbon savings. After an initial investment, you'll be surprised how quickly the improvements will pay for themselves – and rapidly be reflected in reduced business costs.
